MAY TAKE CLEVELAND.

If Number of National League Cities Is Reduced, Cleveland and Louisville May Get in Western. MILWAUKEE WIS. Nov. 23.-At a engthy executive meeting of the magnates of the Western Baseball League to-day the matter of selecting two cities in the circuit to take the places of St. Joseph and Columbus teams was left entirely in the hands of Ban Johnson, of the league, and M. R. Killilea, president of the Milwaukee team. The chances are that Buffalo will take the place of St. Joseph, inasmuch as Messrs. Johnson and Killilea favor the ical, and all that remains to make the deal, and all that remains to make the thing a certainty is satisfactory terms with the Eastern city. The deal by which the Columbus franchise was to be transferred to Denver has been sidetracked. A good proposition in this connection was received from Toledo and will be considered. It was also stated that in case the National League reduces the number of cities in that circuit that Cleveland and Louisville may be taken into the Western league.

JOHNSON'S GREAT RUN.

Makes Seventy-two Balls in the Pool Match With Erickson Without a Miss.

The pool exhibition at the Royal and Collender rooms seems to be growing in interest. The game last evening at the Royal was particularly brilliant. Mr. Johnson, who has been nearly sick since the firs game, was feeling much better last night, and made a run of 72 balls. This is one of the best runs ever seen in this city. Both men are now in good form, and the re-mainder of the series will be well worth mainder of the series will be well worth seeing.

Inquirer:—Fitzsimmons refused to shake hands with Corbett when the men met in the ring at Carson.

Charlie Nichols, of Kansas City and Beston, will spend the winter as clerk for a Boston clothing house, according to the newspapers of that city. He is to have charge of the department in which "Champion" overcoats are sold, and if there is anything in a name Charlie ought to make that brand popular.

The bout between Pediar Palmer and Billy Plimmer, arranged to come off at the National Sporting Club, London, will take place on December 12 instead of December 5. The club has decided to bring off the combat between Ben Jordan and "Darky" Wallace on December 5. Both meetings are limited to twenty rounds.

Sam Fitzpatrick says that he has made meetings are limited to twenty rounds.

Sam Fitzpatrick says that he has made arrangements for Jack Daly to meet Joe Gans in Cleveland instead of at the Lenex Athletic Club. The bout, which is to be for twenty rounds, will be decided on December 16, at 123 pounds. Both Gans and Daly have put up forfeits and have started in to train. George Siler will act as referere.

Except at intervals in two of the rounds, Tom Sharkey had much the best of the Corbett fight from start to finish and proved beyond a question that he is now a much better man than Jim. While the ex-champion showed that he had deteriorated wonderfully, the sailor showed marvelous improvement. Sharkey is now entitled to consideration from the chiefest of the big boys. The best man in the business is either Robert Fitsimmons or Tom Sharkey.

Colonel Robert Fitzsimmons, with his "I

Colonel Robert Fitzsimmons, with his "I teld you so," enoyed a quiet little laugh after the announcement of the result of the recent fight, and declares that he will fight neither Sharkey nor Corbett "until they have licked somebody and made a reputation." Fitz seems to have the best of the argument. He seems to have better ground for claiming the championship than ever before, and there certainly is now no reason, at least, why he should fight Corbett.

It is extremely unlikely that tim Corbett.

It is extremely unlikely that Jim Corbett will ever again receive any consideration from the championship class. His fall has been as speedy and decisive as his rise was brilliant. Corbett was acknowledged to be brilliant. Corbett was acknowledged to be the cleverest man who ever put on the gloves, and after his dethronement of Sul-livan a long career of supremacy was pre-dicted for "Gentleman Jim." Corbett is "Gentleman Jim" no longer, and through his own excesses he has fallen from the position of champion of champions to a place from which he will no longer be able to demand recognition.

He said: "Corbett was fouled early in the fight by Sharkey, and I wished to call the referee's attention to the continued fouls. I approached the ropes for that purpose, and succeeded in attracting Kelly's attention."

McVey refused to answer any questions as to whethr or not he knew that it was against the rules for him to get into the ring while the fight was going on.

Corbett said that the stories to the effect that he and his friends had had a hand in the way the fight ended was absurd. "I had Sharkey on the run." said Corbett, "after the first three rounds, and I would have had no trouble at all in putting him to sleep."

Now, with a spark of intelligence in my brains, do you think I would have s bungled affairs in such a way? mere fact that the action of McVey ap-peared so palpable is evidence that I was not at the bottom of it. been too close in our relations. If there had been any funny business on his part I would certainly have seen some change in him while we were training. I don't say that he did not sell me out, but I bring myself to believe that he did, for I have been most liberal with him."

Kelly and your efforts to hit McVey were forced, in view of the fact that you have such a nervous, excitable disposition, which if you had really meant what you said you did, would have resulted in your aiming blows at McVey?"

In the rage vented yesterday by devotees of sport there were few pleasant words, and those were all for Honest John Kelly, who, voicing the public belief that James J. Corbett lost to Thomas Sharkey by a prearranged foul, declared all bets off. But Kelly could not give back or order restored the $47,876 that was paid into the pockets of the men who managed the Lenox Athletic Club Tuesday night, hence the expressed regrets because of McVey's untimely interference. It is now known that men in New York, who had been betting their money on Corbett, sent three telegrams westward. One went to Seattle, Wash.; another was sent to San Francisco, and the third to Portland, Ore. Each telegram was to a supporter of Corbett, and read: "Arrangements changed. Hedge your money." MANY PEOPLE CANNOT DRINK

There was much talk as to whether or not the referee, "Honest" John Kelly, had or had not exceeded his authority in call-ing all bets off, those who het on Sharkey feeling that they should have received their reward, but the general feeling among the public was that, while it might have been a technical usurpation on Kelly's part, he probably did it in a desire to protect the public, and that from that point of view he was right. Many of those who support boxing contests were much disturbed as to the probable effect on the attendance at the future fights, and the Thousands and thousands of dollars were sent to Western cities to be placed on Sharkey. Corbett was seen at his home last night.

"Really, I hardly know what to say about this affair," he remarked. "No one is so depressed as I am at the action of McVey, which lost me the fight. I have

"I conducted myself coolly all through the rumpus. I did not lose my temper. I came very near hitting McVey, but restrained myself, as I realized that it might do no good after the harm had been done. "I can't see how McVey could have lost his head, but something was the matter anyway. If he had been bought to throw me, he evidently realized that the time had come for action, for another stiff blow would have defeated Sharkey.

"The fight ended so mysteriously that really I am in a trance. I would be ashamed to tell some people what I do think. If some cry fake I can't help it. The crowd can best judge as to that. I never fought better in my life than this time against Sharkey.

"Kelly had no right to declare bets off, but he did the right thing and used good judgment, but he acted only after my entreaty to save my friends their money. It seems queer, however, that he could not have told McVey to keep out, as the latter was not interfering with us and was nowhere near us. When Kelly said 'You lose,' I thought he meant that Sharkey had lost."

This Looks Different. NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The Herald to-morrow will print the following:

against Johnny Gorman, of Brooklyn, before the Monarch Athletic Club in this city to-night, and was awarded the decision by Referee "Yank" Sullivan, Gorman's manager throwing up the sponge at the end of the eighth round of what was to have been a twenty round go.

Ryan started in from the beginning of the fight at Gorman's stomach and wind. In the third round Gorman landed on Ryan's head several times and warmed the welterweight champion up. Gorman was slow but game. Ryan's punches on the wind began to tell in the fifth round. In the sixth and seventh Gorman was severely punished, and Ryan had him going when the gong sounded. Gorman seemed quite fresh when the eighth round opened, but Ryan went at him hammer and tongs. Gorman was unable to defend himself when Ryan sent right and left hard to the ribs in quick succession. Gorman fell to the floor. He tried to rise, but seemed unabic to do so. The gong stopped the count and his seconds carried him to his corner.

A physician examined him, and declared that one of his ribs was broken. Gorman was clearly no match for Ryan who, after he started the claret from the Brooklyn boy's nose in the fourth round, had him practically at his mercy. Gorman's blows seemed to lack steam, and there was every prospect of a knockout in the seventh and eighth rounds. Four good preliminaries were given between local pugitists. Eighteen hundred people crowded into the Turner hall, and were unanimous in their declaration of satisfaction. in their declaration of satisfaction.
